My dear Mr Jennison

I have received the Cheque, and I know not how to thank you sufficiently for the very unexpected surplus of £ 4. 7 which you have taken so much trouble in arranging for me. The conduct of Messrs Hodgetts is most unpardonable to say the least of it. I suppose they only attend to rich clients. Don't trouble yourself in writing to them again, they don't deserve the attention.

Mr Charles Wentworth Dilke the grandfather of Sir Charles was my trustee at the time of my marriage, and Messrs Rice and Reynolds were my Solicitors. On account of some unjust charges on the part of Reynolds (after the death of Rice) Mr Thomas transcend his title, whose Mr Dilke having a friend of his mine probably offended at this, and placed the money in the Court of Chancery

There is no doubt that your opinion respecting the transfer of the funds is corre but as necessity is the mother of invent this appeared to me one means of smoot my difficulties a little. If it could be don with safety, it would certainly be a great relief to me. I should indeed be most glad if you could meet with a clever lawyer fri who would assist us in securing the sm amount desired £200 in Chancery. If that could be realized, for me, it would be such a great relief, that I would let the transfer of the stock rest for the present I will send you the correspondence Mr Thomas by the first opportunity With our kindest regards to all the family. I remain Yours very sincerely E Keats Mr Lamer
